UNIVERSITY RESPONSES TO OFF-CAMPUS NOISE & TRASH VIOLATIONS

The University is committed to fostering a healthy, safe, and vibrant community within the Foggy Bottom/West End neighborhoods for GW students and community members. GW has instituted a progressive educational and disciplinary approach to address off-campus noise and trash disturbances by GW students. In the event that such disturbances are also associated with GW student organizations and groups, the student organizations and groups may also be subject to administrative or disciplinary action by the University.

The table below describes the range of university responses to off-campus noise and trash complaints for individual student cases that result in violations of the “Code of Student Conduct.” GW may determine that alternative and/or additional University responses are appropriate based on the nature of the incident, to include but not be limited to: the severity of the violation, the frequency of reported incidents, a student’s administrative or disciplinary history, or if a student violates other University policies during the incident.
